

Magna Pars Suites

Situated in the heart of Tortona – Milan's fashion and design hub, and the main location of events during Salone – this 2013 five-star was designed by architect Luciano Maria Colombo. The building was a former perfume factory, owned by the Martone family, and it's been given a smart modern makeover and striking new glass-and-steel facade. Named after olfactory notes, the 28 suites, including Abete Bianco (White Pine; right), have an all-white, pared-back decor with furnishings from Poltrona Frau and Flos. Although the hotel's industrial character is part of its strength, the garden at the centre of the property adds a revitalising extra dimension. In-house restaurant Da Noi In (T 02 837 8111) is worth a try and has a strong Italian wine list. Cocktails are served in the bar/lounge Liquidambar.
